- Caren Rideau's book was selected as one of the top choices for Best Design by Veranda, House Beautiful & Elle Decor
- She combines her unique talent as a designer, to expertly include recipes and wine pairings for perfect entertaining at home

When Caren Rideau is not designing bright, functional kitchens for clients or taste-testing wine at the vineyard she runs with her partner, Andrés, she is busy traveling, cooking family recipes and hosting warm gatherings in her California home.

Inspired largely by her upbringing, Rideau's work brings together the vibrant hues and styles of her native Southwest with the love for celebration fostered by her Mexican and Louisiana Creole roots. In Caren Rideau: Kitchen Designer, Vintner, Entertaining at Home, the designer shares the process and inspiration behind her creative interiors, from colorful kitchens and functional to storage-smart dining areas and beyond. She also outlines some of her go-to recipes and wine pairings for easy entertaining (think: summery ceviche with albariño; butternut squash soup with grenache; or chicken tacos with sauvignon blanc). The first book on and by this multitasking designer, Caren Rideau: Kitchen Designer, Vintner, Entertaining at Home is a must-have for anyone looking to revitalize their home and welcome friends and family in style.

CAREN RIDEAU is the founder of The Kitchen Design Group in Los Angeles, California and a vintner at Tierra y Vino. She studied interior architecture in college, and upon graduating, simply said, "I want to design kitchens," and has been doing that ever since.
