- Nelson A. Rockefeller, a friend and fellow collector of Chinese export porcelain, described the (Mottahedeh) collection as "utterly fabulous, an artistic and cultural treasure without comparison in its field." NYT
- Mottahedeh made pieces for organizations that included the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art, the Musée des Arts Décoratifs, Paris, Colonial Williamsburg, Historic Charleston, the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Department of State, and the White House

Splendid Settings: 100 Years of Mottahedeh Design is a testament to both Mottahedeh's inimitable style and Kvalheim's unique vision of the future. This is not your grandma's china.

In this lavishly illustrated celebration of Mottahedeh centenary hundreds of Mottahedeh's finest pieces are showcased; from classical dinner services in the great historical houses of America, to the placement of Mottahedeh pieces in modern New York lofts and contemporary Palm Beach, Florida dwellings, each page is an unexpected joy...
